

My favourite place in the world

My Dear Geet,

As I sit down to write this letter to you, my heart is overflowing with love and gratitude for having you in my life. This love letter is not simply words on paper, but a testament to the profound bond we share, especially as we approach Valentine's Day, a day that symbolizes love, just like you symbolize love in my life.

From the very first moment we connected, I admired your beauty, your spirit, and the way you light up my world. You came into my life at a time when you needed someone, and I felt an unwavering urge to protect you. Every story you shared only deepened my feelings for you, revealing a beauty that radiates from within.

I remember the laughter we shared during silent video calls, how comfortable we felt even in silence. Those moments are precious, a reminder that we need not fill every second with words to communicate our affection. Your nickname, Geet, means so much to me because it represents the melody we create together.

As we've journeyed through challenges, particularly your tough times, my admiration for your loyalty and strength has only grown. I promised to be there for you, not just to support you but to show you that you deserve the utmost love and care. I want you to know that every promise I make to you is a commitment to grow, to change, and to build a brighter future together. I envision you as the mother of our children and sharing a long-lasting happiness.

You have brought joy and light into my life, transforming everything into something beautiful. I appreciate how you talk endlessly, how you share your world with me, and I cherish every moment we spend together. Each laugh, each smile, even the silences, carry weight and meaning in my heart.

Geet, I vow to stand by you through all challenges that life throws our way. My promise is to never leave your side, to support you, and to fill your life with all the love you deserve. You are everything to me—my dreams, my partner, my love. Let us face whatever comes next together, united in love.

I wish for nothing more than your presence, your love, and your laughter in my life, now and forever. On this Valentine's Day, and every day that follows, my wish is simple: just be with me always.

With all my love,

Sangeet (Your Boondi Ka Ladoo)
